

This is a Guide to measure for proper halter fit If you would like to send me measurements with your order.

My horse size usually fits all horses, draft size for drafts or horses with really big heads.

Yearling size for yearlings or it dose fit most really small headed horses like Arabs.

Foal size for weanlings and ponies, but for minis I recommended measuring as their heads really do vary in size.

Guide for my halter sizing

In order to assure that the size is exactly as you desire, please provide measurements from A-B, B-C, C-D, D-E, E-F and F-A or F-G.

Measurements are from center of knot to center of knot.

These Pics can also help you with your measurements (If you cannot understand how to do the above measurements the two most important are to measure around the nose (Measuring for the nose measurement should be done just below the cheek bone and completely around the nose with the second measurement done from that spot up over the head to the same spot on the other side.) And to measure for the side bars shown below. If you can measure for the throat latch that is helpful as well.
